Since He Commenced To Take "Fruit-a-lives"

73 LEES AVE., OTTAWA.

"Three years ago, I began to feel run-down and tired, and suffered very much from Liver and Kidney Trouble. Having heard of 'Fruit-a-lives', I thought I would try them. The result was surprising.

I have not had an hour's sickness since I commenced using 'Fruit-a-lives' or Fruit Liver Tablets, and I know now what I haven't known for a good many years—the blessing of a healthy body and clear thinking brain." WALTER J. MARRIOTT.

"I am well satisfied with the work of the monument I bought of you last year. Before I bought a monument I visited several cemeteries, and examined many monuments to satisfy myself in regard to what kind of granite to use. After a thorough examination I was satisfied the work of the monument was the best, and an well pleased with the workmanship and setting, also."

National Wrapping Machine Co.

Your correspondent had the pleasure recently of inspecting the plant of the National Wrapping Machine company.

This company located at Newport last fall through the efforts of the Newport Board of Trade.

The Reed property and machinery were purchased and then began the work of readjustment and fitting the building to the needs of the new business. This is still being done as fast as possible. The building has been sheathed with wall board. New and commodious offices are being constructed, the old machinery repaired and augmented by new machines. A steam heating plant has been installed and now the plant is assuming a condition for adequately handling the business, which is bound to grow.

The product of the company is a machine which automatically wraps small articles, particularly candy. The machines vary in price from $400 up. We were shown one costing $750 which wrapped for us candy kisses and was very interesting to watch. This machine was ready for shipment to New Orleans.

We learned that this company's product has been placed in various cities in the U. S. from New York to San Francisco, in Canada and England. Orders are now on file for a number of machines that owing to the reconstruction they have been unable to fill.

This industry is in its embryo state in Newport and requires encouragement by the city, also patience that it may demonstrate its stability and productivity when the reconstruction problems are overcome.

We were escorted through the plant by the general president, A. DeGolyer, and the workings explained to us. We doubt if the people of Newport realize what this business means to

Baptist Church Rebuilt.

The First Baptist Church of Newport celebrated its 100th anniversary last year by beginning the work of re-constructing the edifice which is located on Second street, having been moved there from the Lake road district about 70 years ago.

The present building is the result of raising the former about two feet and adding 22 feet to the rear, and a basement under the whole. The exterior of the building was changed very little, the idea being to retain the early church and continue the colonial effect to the interior.

On the first floor are the vestry, class rooms, committee room and the kitchen, entered at the front through the vestibule, which has a beamed ceiling effect with fluted columns and white-paneled wainscoting. These rooms are finished in cypress. A red brick fireplace in one corner of the committee room adds to the homelike appearance. This room and the class rooms are connected with the dining room by means of folding doors.

The auditorium is on the second floor and has a high beamed ceiling divided into large panels. A heavy flat arch over the pulpit is supported by four large ionic columns with pilasters against the wall to match.

This room is furnished in mahogany and white woodwork and furnished with mahogany pews and furnaces.

The room is lighted by semi-indirect electric lights one in the center of each panel.

The rostrum with the altar in the front has on either side, space which may be used for choir chorus or additional seats. Back of this space are high panels enclosing a class room on one side and the baptistry on the other.

In the center is the beautiful pipe organ, a memorial gift of Mrs. Benj. Hinman, in memory of her mother, who was one of the early staunch supporters of this church.

The first service was held Easter Sunday.

The public were invited Friday night to a recital on the new memorial organ by A. H. Brooks of St. Johnsbury. Mrs. C. A. Brown sang and George W. Hamilton rendered selections on the violin.

The formal dedicatory services began Sunday, April 7th, with evangelistic services which will continue until April 21st.
